As is the case with Grafton County the town of Grafton was named after the Duke of Grafton. The Duke was a pro-American member of the English government prior to the American Revolution. It was granted as a town in 1761 and then granted again to new colonists including John Hancock and James Otis two well known Boston patriots in 1769.

Grafton is an easy drive from Lebanon and Hanover, New Hampshire and traffic is easy going and very scenic.

See our area attractions page for more information on the great attractions in the Upper Valley.
